

ATG Training is proud to promote our Men into Childcare initiative

We want to challenge gender stereotypes, so, as part of Apprenticeship Week 2010, we are launching our Men into Childcare initiative, to encourage more young men to train and pursue careers in the Childcare sector.

ATG Training offers an Apprenticeship in Children's Care Learning & Development, which has been designed to give learners the basic knowledge and skills needed to secure employment in a nursery or pre-school setting.

To increase the understanding of the childcare sector among young men, we are offering free practical taster sessions, where they can learn about the types of activities that stimulate creativity and learning in babies and young children, and learn about the care and support they need in the early years of childhood.

Dates of taster sessions:

- Wednesday 3rd February 2010
2pm - 3pm & 5pm - 6pm

All sessions are free of charge (but will only run subject to sufficient demand). Everyone who attends a session will automatically be entered into a prize draw to win an iTunes voucher.

(Due to health & safety, all attendees must be aged 14 or over.)

Call or e-mail Alex for more information or to book a place.

Tel: 01296 737804

E-mail: future@atg-training.co.uk

Websites: www.atg-training.co.uk
& www.atg-training.tv

atg training
for your future...