

ATG Training is proud to promote our Women into Technology This Year initiative

We want to challenge gender stereotypes, so, as part of Apprenticeship Week 2010, we are launching our WITTY initiative to encourage more women to train in technical subjects like Engineering Design, Electrical Engineering and Information Communication Technology.

ATG Training offer Apprenticeships in the following Technical disciplines:

- Electrical Installation
- ICT Practitioners (hardware)
- Mechanical Engineering including Computer Aided Design (CAD) and Electronics

To enable more young women to try out these technical subjects, we are offering a variety of practical taster sessions, just for them!

- Computer Aided Design
Tuesday 2nd February 2010, 2pm - 3pm & 5pm - 6pm
- Electrical
Wednesday 3rd February 2010, 2pm - 3pm & 5pm - 6pm
- Electronics
Thursday 4th February 2010, 2pm - 3pm & 5pm - 6pm
- ICT Practitioners (hardware)
Thursday 4th February 2010, 2pm - 3pm & 5pm - 6pm

All the sessions are free of charge (but will only run subject to sufficient demand). Everyone who attends a session will automatically be entered into a prize draw to win an iTunes voucher.

(Due to health & safety, all attendees must be aged 14 or over.)

Call or e-mail Alex for more information or to book a place.

Tel: 01296 737804

E-mail: future@atg-training.co.uk

Websites: www.atg-training.co.uk
& www.atg-training.tv

atg training
for your future...